

ABOUT THE CONTRIBUTORS

Stephen Brooke teaches twentieth-century British history at York University. He has published in Past and Present, American Historical Review, Historical Journal and other journals. He is the author of Labour's War (Oxford, 1992) and the forthcoming Sexual Politics: Sexuality, Family Planning and the British Left, 1880s to the Present Day (Oxford, 2011).

Elizabeth Jameson holds the Imperial Oil-Lincoln McKay Chair in American Studies at the University of Calgary. She chaired the "Ludlow Committee" of the Labor and Working-Class History Association that worked successfully to establish the Ludlow site as a National Historic Landmark in 2009. Her publications include All That Glitters: Class, Conflict, and Community in Cripple Creek (Urbana: University of Illinois Press, 1998) and (with James Green) "Marking Labor History on the National Landscape: The Restored Ludlow Memorial and Its Significance," International Labor and Working-Class History 76:1 (September 2009): 6-25.

Michelle Mart is an Associate Professor of History at Penn State University, Berks campus. She is the author of Eye on Israel: How America Came to View Israel as an Ally, and is currently at work on a study of pesticides in postwar America.

Ian McKay teaches history at Queen's University and is working on a multi-volume history of the Canadian left.

Ronald Paul is a Senior Lecturer in English Literature at the University of Göteborg, Sweden. His most recent books include The Other Half: British Working-Class Stories (1994), Unruly Nations: a People's History of Britain (1996) and Dissonant Voices: Literature and Society in Britain from Chaucer to the Present Day (1999).